Pre-vote meeting called

Terrace Chamber of Commerce this week mails out invitations to an all-candidates meeting to the 17 local citizens seeking election to Municipal Council or school board.

"The letter of invitation will be mailed to all candidates for reeve, council, or school board," Chamber president Willie Schneider said this week.

The Chamber-sponsored all-candidates' meeting will be held Wednesday December 6 at 8 p.m. in the Terrace Community Centre.

The meeting will be jointly chaired by Rev. George Keenleyside of Knox United and Father P. Mohan of Sacred Heart Catholic Church.

Chamber president Schneider said that both written and spoken questions would be put to candidates at the Wednesday meeting.

Schneider said the use of written questions was designed to assist people who were reluctant to speak in front of a large crowd.

"We want to help them feel relaxed and take an active part in the meeting," Schneider said.

Junior Chambers volunteers would collect the written questions, he said.

The Chamber of Commerce president stressed however that oral questions would be welcome.

"We assume that it will be a lively meeting," he said.

Schneider also rejected charges made last week in the Terrace Herald by candidate-for-Reeve Vic Jolliffe who said that the Chamber representative responsible for organizing the meeting was a member of the Better Municipal Government Committee.

"The role the Chamber is playing in the all-candidates' meeting is simply footling the bill," Schneider said.

Candidates meeting set for Sunday

Candidate-for-Reeve Poul Bogelund said this week that a Sunday all-candidates' meeting organized by himself and Councillor Vic Jolliffe would go ahead as scheduled.

Bogelund and Jolliffe are opponents in the ballot for reeve. The third candidate for reeve, Fred Weber, has indicated that it is unlikely he will attend the Bogelund-Jolliffe-sponsored meeting.

"I don't see any reason for holding two all-candidates' meetings," he told the Herald this week. "I see no point to it."

The Sunday meeting will be chaired by Councillor Harry Smith who has decided not to run again this election.

The meeting will be held at the Tilticum Theatre, beginning at 8 p.m.

Poul Bogelund said that some independent candidates felt that a Wednesday meeting would be too late in the election to be effective.

Kitimat cool to regional library

When it comes to libraries, that was the opinion voiced forcefully by Kitimat delegates Sunday at a meeting of librarians, library trustees and civic officials.

They met at the Terrace Public Library.

UC minister injured in collision

A two-car collision Saturday injured Terrace United Church minister Rev. George W. Keenleyside.

The head-on crash occurred on ice-slick Highway 16, eleven miles east of Prince Rupert at 3:30 p.m.

Mr. Keenleyside suffered a broken nose, torn cartilage abrasions and bruises.

Passengers in the Keenleyside car, Mrs. William Keenleyside, her eight-year-old son, Kent, and Mrs. Ed McFadden, all of Terrace, suffered slight bruises and abrasions in the collision.

Mrs. Dhirendar Singh Minhas of Hazelton, a passenger in the other car, driven by her husband, was hospitalized temporarily in Prince Rupert following the smash.

The Minhas vehicle was rounding a corner enroute to Prince Rupert when it apparently skidded out of control on ice and smashed into the eastbound Keenleyside car.

Mr. Keenleyside and his passengers later returned to Terrace by bus.

They had been in Port Simpson earlier Saturday for the dedication of the United Church Mission ship, the Thomas Crosby V and were enroute home to Terrace when the accident occurred.

Mr. Keenleyside, termed snow and ice conditions on the highway at the time of the mishap as "absolutely fantastic."

No charges are contemplated in the wake of the accident.

Kitimat will go its own way.

Library to discuss the possibility of using regional library systems in the Skeena area.

Some thirty delegates from Prince Rupert, Kitimat and Terrace took part in the discussions.

Bob Davidson of the Provincial Library Commission, Victoria, outlined the regional system involving co-operation between community libraries. He related the need for a regional system to the Vainstein report which found that B.C. was not getting adequate library service.

Davidson's statement was supported by the director of the Vancouver Island Regional Library system, White said that a regional system would raise standards of service to readers and lower operating costs.

Kitimat delegates vigorously opposed any move to put a regional library system into effect here. They claimed that it would increase their tax assessment. They also said that they were satisfied that their present library facilities in Kitimat were quite adequate.

Terrace and Prince Rupert delegates favored the idea. Representatives from both communities said they looked to a system which would offer advantages through central purchasing, cataloguing, and exchange of collections.

COLLECTION PRESENTED
 VICTORIA (CP) — A collection of 50 watercolors painted by Henry Ogilvie Bell-Irving between 1883 and 1886 has been presented to the British Columbia Archives by Ian M. Bell-Irving of Vancouver, a descendant of the artist. The collection includes a number of scenes along the CPR route through the Canadian Rockies on which the artist worked as a construction engineer.

Look north for B.C. potential, Williston says

Provincial Minister of Lands Ray Williston says B.C. must look to its northern communities "for the further realization of our provincial potential."

The Minister's remarks were made in a column circulated to weekly newspapers.

"It is becoming apparent that northern development is increasingly necessary to the good of the province as a whole," he said.

Williston cited official statistics which indicated that centralization of major developments in southern B.C. could lead to over congestion and loss of efficiency.

He wrote:

"Metropolitan Vancouver, for example, last year accounted for over 47 per cent of the provincial population and, while the centralization of manufacturing, financing, shipping, and other organizations has many advantages to the economy, there are inherent problems in such centralization."

"Aggravation of the undesirable offshoots of a vigorous economy such as air pollution, traffic congestion, and growth of slums can be expected, if one may accept patterns of development in other large cities as a guide."

THREE CANDIDATES SEEK REEVE'S POST

Wide interest in December 9 poll

Poul Bogelund, Victor C. G. Jolliffe and J. Fred Weber will contest the December 9 election for reeve.

Five for school board

Terrace School district 53 takes a name and number change but school board elections will continue in much the same way.

Five people will contest the four school board seats allocated to Terrace on election day, December 9.

They are James Caruso, John Edward Cook, Dr. Robert Edmund Lee, Mrs. Nancy Orr and Keith H. Tucker.

The School district will in future be known as School District 88 (Skeena-Cassiar). Hazelton will supply two school board members and Stewart one.

Maritimes a disgrace, Bennett says

VANCOUVER (CP) — After returning from a federal-provincial fiscal conference in Ottawa, Premier Bennett last week said continued existence of the four Atlantic provinces after 100 years of confederation is a "national disgrace."

In a television interview in Victoria, the Premier criticized the Federal Government for failing to encourage establishment of a single province in the maritimes.

"The present situation is equivalent to the former crown colonies of Vancouver Island, the B.C. mainland and two former territories now included in B.C. being provinces today and all receiving equalization grants," Mr. Bennett said. "B.C. is keeping these provinces and there is no doubt about it."

When asked if he begrudged equalization payments which go to all provinces except B.C., Alberta and Ontario, Mr. Bennett said "I don't begrudge them but I believe they are most unfair."

"B.C. doesn't put a dollar value on its membership in confederation because we believe in the dream of Canada."

Mr. Bennett said B.C. opposes federal equalization policies because they mean that hundreds of millions of dollars are being wasted by other provincial governments that practise patronage.

He said a better system of sharing the wealth of Canada would be to ensure that all Canadians have a decent standard of living and provide a greater return to the national treasury in the form of federal income tax which could be achieved by raising wages in less prosperous parts of the nation.

During the week Mr. Bennett also revealed that B.C. has received $12,000,000 owed by the United States since July.

The sum was due upon completion of the Duncan Dam as part of the Columbia River treaty between Canada and the U.S. The money is for downstream flood control benefits to the U.S. as a result of early completion of the dam.

The Premier had called for payment several times since the end of July, demanding interest from the due date.

He said he was informed by External Affairs Minister Martin that the money had been paid and would be transferred immediately to B.C.

Mr. Bennett said the sum received was without interest and that Mr. Martin assured him that the federal government would pursue the interest question with the U.S.

All three filed papers on Monday, official nomination day for one of the most widely discussed elections in Terrace history.

As announced earlier, Reeve A.F. (Bert) Goulet will not seek re-election. The incumbent reeve leaves Terrace in early January to take a new job in the Vancouver area.

Poul Bogelund, a former municipal engineer, is campaigning to hold civic taxes at their present level. He has criticized excessive use of planning consultants.

Skeena Broadcasters managing director J. Fred Weber is official candidate for a citizen's group known as the Committee for Better Municipal Government.

The committee has published a six-point platform calling for efficient use of funds, consistency in handling municipal affairs, planning for future development, civic leadership, increased contact with Provincial and Federal government, and keeping the public informed on municipal affairs.

Councillor Victor C. G. Jolliffe resigned his seat to contest the reeveship for the second time. In 1965 he lost to Reeve Goulet.

Jolliffe has not as yet made any public policy statements. He is expected to use television to introduce his campaign in the coming week.

Two surprise candidates presented themselves at Monday's nominations for council.

Both Michael Joseph Gerald Duffus and Thomas B. Olson will seek two-year terms on Council.

Seven candidates will contest the three two-year seats.

Also seeking election are Mary Moore, Donald H. Deane and Better Municipal Government candidates Ev Cliff, Lloyd Johnstone and Alan McAlpine.

Only two candidates will seek the one-year term, created by the resignation of Councillor Jolliffe. They are Thomas Gordon Kerr and present councillor and BMG candidate Bill McRae.

HELICOPTER CARRYING ALUMINUM TOWER

Hydro completes Alice Arm link

Whirlbirds luging aluminum towers set records to complete the first all-aluminum transmission line for B.C. Hydro.

Skeenaview volunteers call meeting

People who want to help the old men at Skeenaview Hospital get their chance Thursday December 7.

A meeting of the auxiliary will be called, starting at 7:30 p.m. upstairs in the Terrace Community Centre.

While a number of people have been serving as volunteers, the Thursday meeting is designed specifically to give recent volunteers the opportunity to help.

Some 15 volunteers have already offered their services following an article in the Terrace Herald stressing the need of people to visit the hospital and chat with the patients.

According to Skeenaview nurse Maja Van Weston who is helping to organize the December 7 auxiliary meeting, anyone who wants to help at the hospital is needed at the meeting.

The 91-mile line links Terrace and Alice Arm. The power it carries has put the provinces newest molybdenum mine into production at Alice Arm.

The mine, fourth in B.C., is operated by B.C. Molybdenum Limited, a subsidiary of Kennecott, Canada, Ltd.

Helicopters set the line's 625 lightweight towers along a right-of-way north to Alice Arm.

The new powerline's prefabricated, rust-proof towers weigh from 875 to 1,175 pounds each, less than half the weight of comparable steel structures.

It was possible to erect them four to five times as quickly as steel towers.

Engineers believe a world record was set during construction of the line when 68 towers were set in a single day.

Best setting time — from arrival of a helicopter over a tower site until its departure to pick up its next load — was just under a minute and a half.

Helicopters were used to transport aluminum towers in order to avoid building access roads. There are no bridges across the Nass River; which the line crosses 70 miles north of Terrace, and there are no roads on the 21 miles of rugged mountain country north from the river to Alice Arm.

South of the Nass, the right-of-way is rough and rocky. At one point, 55 miles north of Terrace, it runs through a large lava bed left only 300 years ago by a now-extinct volcano.

The line is strung with aluminum conductor. Especially heavy conductor was used in the section north of the Nass, where moist coastal air cooled by glaciers results in heavy icing and snowfall each winter.

The transmission line was energized initially at 60,000 volts. It will be stepped up to its full 138,000-volt capacity later as demand increases in the heavily mineralized region.

Power carried along the line is purchased by B.C. Hydro from the Aluminum Company of Canada Ltd.'s Kitimat-Alumina power system.

KILLED IN ACTION
 RIDGEWAY, Ont. (CP) — Patrick John Dearborne, 18, of Ridgeway, has been killed in Vietnam while serving as a member of the United States Marine Corps.

DESPITE WHAT WE SAID THEIR HOMES WON'T SINK

Terrace citizens Stan Barton and Fred Clarke won't have to man the lifeboats after all.

A story in last week's Herald indicated that erosion could cause their homes to sink beneath the Skeena.

At fault was a transposed page of notes in a reporter's notebook. Both homes are high above the water line and in no danger at all.

Barton and Clarke brought the attention of Terrace Municipal Council to the threat of erosion to eight lots below their homes where fast-flowing water and a sandy bank raises a threat to property.

One lot did lose some 15 feet in the past year.

Municipal Council is currently studying approaches to the Provincial or Federal Governments in the matter.

Why should they vote?

There is sufficient interest in the December 9 Terrace Municipal elections to suppress the trite catchphrase: "Vote for the candidate of your choice, but vote."

Such indiscriminate advice, if it were followed, could have a disturbing effect on local democracy. A rush to the polls by all the dedicated dillards and community bystanders could form a stupidity bloc and rob more intelligent voters of the effectiveness of their ballots.

This newspaper feels that the upcoming election will be vital to the future of the community.

The interest in the election has to date reflected minor interest in the personalities involved but major concern for the policies advocated by candidates.

Such an interest by the electorate could take Terrace a step above many other municipalities and cities where civic government is the Cinderella of the three forms of government, and dunderheads are elected by default.

Municipal elections lack the glamor and advertising agency image-making of the Provincial and Federal polls. But municipal government is also the immediate form of government. The municipality controls police, the building of homes, the mundane but essential services of water, sewage and garbage. Here in Terrace we also have a community beleaguered by inadequate income, still relatively a newcomer as a municipality yet possibly facing major expansion which could lead to city status within a decade.

The community must naturally show considerable interest in the policies and abilities of the people who have offered themselves as candidates in this election.

Mr. Weber and the Better Municipal Government committee have given major statements of policy, statements which undoubtedly have helped create an unprecedented interest in this election. Mr. Bogelund has also offered the electorate his thoughts on the high level of local taxation. Mr. Jolliffe has not as yet unveiled any policies for the scrutiny of the public: we trust that he will not keep the electorate in suspense much longer.

The candidate's platforms and the issues facing the community, must demand something more than a lazy appeal to an equally lazy electorate to present themselves at the polling booth.

To the people who have the concern of the community at heart, who will take the time to study the issues, investigate the promises and compare the candidates, it would be an insult to their intelligence and good will to remind them to vote.

To the slob-like citizenry who don't care, may we suggest that they remain immured in their living rooms, perhaps read one of the simpler comic books to pass the time and refrain from cluttering up the ballot box. And, naturally they should not criticize future actions of any Council they failed to elect or oppose in the democratic process.

Make breathalyzer compulsory?

By the United Church Board of Evangelism

During 1965, there were 4,879 persons slaughtered on Canada's highways, according to THE CUP THAT KILLS, an article in The Canadian Magazine.

Canadian authorities estimate that close to half of our traffic fatalities are a direct result of drinking and driving.

In two other highly mobilized countries, Britain and United States, figures show that from 56 to an astounding 68 per cent of traffic accidents can be blamed on the drinking driver.

Why are we so complacent about drinking and driving? Of twenty-five countries reporting to the World Health Organization, Canada leads the way with traffic deaths 25.3 per 100,000 people.

Something is necessary to stir us from such dangerous lethargy. One way would be to make the breathalyzer test compulsory everywhere in Canada.

It has been suggested that such a test is an invasion of personal rights, but is it really? Is it a violation of rights when a policeman searches a suspect for theft or interrogates a murder suspect? We would regard such action as protecting the rights of all others. What about the rights of other drivers on the highway?

Safety campaigns have no effect on the drunk driver... he is invariably hostile and self-destructive.

We won't make any progress until we view the intoxicated driver, for what he is... a potential murderer.

Our dear Ruth Hallock noted no female candidates for reeve. Holy, dirty, lovely six-letter words - what did she expect???

Women so far haven't even learned how to raise kiddies or drive a car. How the (theological term) can they expect to qualify to run a multi-million dollar game like the gateway to northern B.C. - the Yukon and Alaska?

Still, if I ever got to the bottom of the barrel and had to find a woman that I would support as a candidate, I think her name would be Ruth.

ANDY CAPP...

When dog teams carried mail and mailman did the shopping

DOG TEAM like the one above brought mail to the Pacific Northwest in the early part of the century.

By SPERRY CLINE

Sperry Cline was an old-time mailman who lugged the mail through the Pacific Northwest in the early part of the century. He wrote this article for the Herald in May, 1957. We think it's worth printing again.

After the Klitmat, Hazelton and Omineca Railway was bonded in the early 1900's and the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway from Prince Rupert was accepted, a great change took place along the Skeena River.

With the start of construction work, facilities for travel were established at Port Essington at the mouth of the river. Our old friend Wiggs O'Neill of Smithers started a gasboat service between Port Essington and Telegraph Point, thus enabling travellers to negotiate that part of the river which had been impassable during the winter months. Many tales could be told of his struggles with tides, gales, ice flows and snowstorms, but the redoubtable Wiggs always got through and maintained a reliable service.

Consequently our mail route was now from Hazelton to Telegraph Point by dog team, then to Port Essington by O'Neill's boat service, then to Prince Rupert by a daily boat service between these points.

With construction work starting again, workmen were brought in by hundreds. They were mostly from the Balkan countries. Office staff and foremen were mostly Highland Scottish, with a sprinkling of other nationalities.

Together with this influx of railway workers came hundreds of others, forming a cross-section of humanity. There were men with a set purpose and grimly determined to establish themselves in a new land. Such men as the late George Little of Terrace and Frank Dockrill of Telkwa, who clung to their construction ideas through wars and depressions and finally realized their dreams. Settlers, some with families, willing to face years of austerity and toil to make a home, took up homesteads.

Rugged prospectors flocked in search of the gold at the end of the rainbow. Some of them succeeded. There were boomers looking for an opportunity to make quick money in any business venture that might present itself.

Tinhorn gamblers and denizens of the underworld, who located temporarily where ever there was a congestion of population, followed in good numbers. Also, a number of that type of Old Country men coming to the West about the turn of the Century, who always had more than a passing interest in the arrival of the mail from overseas.

We of the mail service knew them all. After the close of river navigation in the winter, we were their only connection with the outside world during the long winter months.

The amount of mail being handled increased rapidly. Besides the Government contract there was the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway mail, which the company was responsible for. This service was let to Burnes and Mulvaney on a per capita basis, which increased our work considerably.

We soon realized that we were being looked on to perform other duties. Persons in urgent need of some article would commission us to make a purchase at the coast and deliver same. This increased so much that it became necessary to organize an express service. This not only put additional responsibility onto the drivers but also led to certain incidents that I will try to describe.

Our efforts to oblige were usually appreciated, but as I have said, there was a great variety of people to consider and some misunderstandings occurred. A spool of thread, not the exact shade of the material; a rise in the price of an article since a former purchase and failure to obtain a desired article after an exhaustive search of all the stores at the coast - we were often accused of dishonesty or incompetency.

As the population increased, more frequent deliveries were demanded until we were delivering two mails per week at Hazelton.

The amount of mail had also increased until it required several teams per trip.

At peak there were at least seven dog teams engaged on the river; and as the need increased Ottawa was requested to increase the service and usually responded promptly.

One incident in this connection now seems to me rather amusing but at the time caused considerable trouble.

As there was no official body such as the Board of Trade in the country, a town meeting was called. A chairman appointed and the object of the meeting put before the assembly in the proper parliamentary manner. A resolution was passed asking Postal officials for a bi-weekly mail, and we soon received a reply that such a service was granted.

When the new schedule started there was much consternation among the frequenters of the village saloons. It took several exchanges of telegrams between Hazelton and Ottawa to convince the Postal Department that what had been requested was a semi-weekly mail service.

To look after all these activities, Burnes, staying at Hazelton, would attend to such matters as purchasing of dogs and equipment, hiring drivers etc., while Mulvaney, at Prince Rupert, would look after dispatching etc.

One driver would be in charge of each outfit, which would consist from two to four teams, and it was in this capacity that I was engaged.

On the down-runs the teams would be left at Telegraph Point and the driver in charge would go on to Prince Rupert, while the other drivers would remain in charge of the dogs.

Sacks of registered mail were supposed to receive particular attention, but there was really very little we could do in that respect.

I usually took the registered sack from the toboggan at night, and when stopping at construction camps would simply throw it into the bunk that I was assigned to for the night.

There was never any attempt to meddle with these registered sacks, and now I often think it strange that such was the case, as everyone knew they contained valuables.

On one occasion, after delivery at the Foley, Welch and Stewart head office at Sealy, I learned that the sack contained over $20,000 in currency.

PUBLIC RELATIONS HANDOUTS CAN'T HALT POLLUTION THREAT

"Industry in Canada," says editor David Hellwell of Plant Administration & Engineering, "is trying to smite down today's pressing pollution problem by pretending it isn't there or, even worse, by using public relations tactics to calm fears and convince the public that things are under control. In reality, both air and water pollution is getting worse at a frightening rate."

But these are only two of the most obvious forms of pollution. What about the mountains of slag, ash and waste from mining and refining? What about the disposal of scrap cars, cans and bottles? There's no legislation even in sight. Industry's answer to date has been to stress the high costs of solving these problems. "Business can't bear the full burden," is the agonizing cry. Some crafty pr-men have even suggested that many pollution problems just can't be solved. Our scientists are still working on the problem, they say.

"Judging by the small amount of money going into research, they'll be working for quite awhile. Other companies are sidestepping the issue by using smart lawyers to get them off the hook on technicalities. But the battle is just beginning."

READY WITH STAMPS is Mrs. Edna Gregorash who opens Thornhill's first sub post office at Gregg's Red and White Store December 1. See story below.

Theatre association to present pantomime

Postal outlet announced for Thornhill area

Thornhill residents won't have to cross the bridge to buy a stamp as of December 1. Nor to mail a parcel. Or send a money order.

Robert Dumma, Terrace Postmaster, announced this week that a sub post office would be opened at Gregg's Red and White Store on Lakelse Lake Rd.

Mrs. Edna Gregorash will be in charge of the sub post office. Mrs. Gregorash is currently taking a training course at the Terrace post office to prepare for the December 1 opening of her sub post office.

The Thornhill sub post office is the first to be opened in the area.

Terrace Little Theatre Association announced production of a pantomime, "The Emperor's New Clothes" at the group's November meeting.

Molly Nattress will direct the pantomime, the second such production in Terrace. Last year's pantomime was, "Jack And The Beanstalk".

The meeting, held in the home of Mrs. Esther McCabe, director of "Barefoot In The Park" Robin McColl registered a vote of thanks to all who assisted with the three act play.

Plans were finalized for a Coffeehouse Workshop held November 18 at the home of Molly Nattress.

About sixty people attended the workshop which was staged in an informal manner and featured excerpts from plays and dramatic works, as performed by members of Terrace Little Theatre Association.

Each member of the audience was asked to note criticism following the presentations.

Work shown ranged from vocal solos by Miss Pat Nattress and Mr. Carl Holden Jr. to original comedy skits and poetry readings.

Co-ordinator for the event was Mrs. Sylvia Johnson. A second Coffeehouse Workshop has been tentatively scheduled for the evening of Sunday, December 10.

at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Fenger. Paul Fenger will co-ordinate the second workshop.

Molly Nattress has held successful casting readings for the February pantomime and has cast the following lead roles: Dave Cash as "The Emperor", Dave Simons as "Cleo", Norbert Cote as "Hanky Panky", Ruth Hallock as "Finky Poo", Don Swanson as "Chop", Maureen Creer as "Suey", Pat Nattress as "Marco", Jan O. Farrell as "Princess Willow", Joyce Holden as "Wi-Wi", Barbara Halliday as "Djinnie", George English as "Dragon Keeper", Jim Banting as "Po-Li" and Laurie Thain as "Notti-Li".

Anglicans print French version of Common prayer

TORONTO — A French version of the Book of Common Prayer to meet the needs of French-speaking Anglicans in Canada has been published by a committee of the Anglican Church of Canada under the chairmanship of Rt. Rev. R.L. Seaborn, Bishop of Newfoundland.

Five thousand copies of the book, bearing the title "Le Recueil des Prières de la Communauté Chrétienne" have been printed.

The translation is the work of Rev. Prof. J.C. Kirby of Montreal Diocesan Theological College and J.H. Bieler, former deputy minister of finance for the province of Quebec.

Young Anglicans want name change

TORONTO — Anglican young people will meet here in December to discuss proposals to change the name and constitution of the 65-year-old Anglican Young People's Association.

Present constitutional procedures could be dropped in favor of loose guidelines and organizational control be transferred from the national to local level.

The name of the national youth organization, created by charter in 1902, may be changed to Anglican Youth Movement.

Teenagers from across Canada will meet in Toronto Dec. 27-31 to discuss the face-lifting proposals.

NEW HOPE FOR DEAF BABIES

A McGill University research program could bring new hope for the one out of every 1,000 babies born partially or totally deaf, reports Maclean's Magazine.

Frequently these babies reach the age of three — and sometimes seven — before parents realize there is something wrong with their hearing.

By that time their ability to speak and comprehend is often retarded. The research program makes use of an 'aural stimulator,' a pocket-sized device that emits a pleasant tweeting noise.

Christmas on the front door

OES decorations aid cancer fund

Ladies of Thornhill Chapter 85, Order of the Eastern Star, will ask local people to "let front doors tell the Christmas story" this year.

The O.E.S. is accepting orders for unique Christmas sprays of pine cones, red ribbon and festive baubles, as well as for genuine holly wreaths.

Proceeds from the sale of the Christmas items will benefit Cancer Research in Canada. Locally, the Thornhill Chapter O.E.S. has established a Cancer Dressing station which supplies free of charge, dressings for any cancer patient regardless of race, color or creed.

Also high on the list of projects undertaken by O.E.S. are scholarships, including Training Award for Religious Leadership, given each year to students of theological colleges. Last year seven awards were made.

The Elizabeth Bentley Scholarship is another annual award given to a young woman planning to further her education. Former Terrace concert pianist, Miss Ruth Telford, was the recipient of this scholarship several years ago.

The Save The Children Fund and the O.E.S. Auxiliary Fund also get a share of all proceeds gained through Eastern Star functions.

The green Christmas door sprays will be ready for delivery on December 16. To order phone Mrs. Victor Dean at 635-6167 or Mrs. William Bennett at 635-5350.

Control loss major cause of accidents

Majority of accidents are caused by a single driver's losing control of his vehicle, according to a report in Bus & Truck Transport.

In a study of 111 accidents in which 146 occupants were killed over a three-year period, two accidents researchers examined victims for the causes of death, the body areas injured and the structures that had caused the injuries.

Their findings: 84 per cent of accidents had occurred on the open road, not at intersections, and the majority (60 per cent of the total) were one-car collisions with some obstacle on the roadway.

About half the accidents involving more than one car resulted from one vehicle invading the roadway of another by crossing the centre line or median.

In other words, the vast majority of accidents were caused by a single driver's losing control of his car.

More than half the vehicles involved in one-car collisions struck trees or utility poles. The others rolled over because of poorly designed ditches, slopes or other parts of the road.

FOURTH PROGRAM DECEMBER 2

Jamboree finds new talents

There'll be some new talent in the December 2 Hometown Jamboree, fourth in a series being presented here by the Terrace Talent Association.

Rehearsals and auditions are held every Sunday afternoon in the Terrace Community Centre, and the forthcoming Jamboree promises to feature some new acts.

Geared to country, western, and folk music tastes, the Jamboree is the brainchild of Al Kinsman better known to his fans as "Cousin Herkimer." On November 11, close to 600 people jammed into the Community Centre to see Cousin Herk and about 20 other performers in the third concert of the series.

Among the audience were some 25 members of the Terrace Old Age Pensioners Association, all of whom have complimentary passes to the monthly shows. Also special guests of Kinsman and his Talent Association, were 20 patients from the Skeenview Hospital for the Aged.

Dave Cash, radio announcer for CFTK, volunteered his services as master of ceremonies. The show features entertainment from all age groups, with vocalists, instrumentalists and comedy acts providing the variety.

Kinsman, who came to Terrace from the Prairie provinces, has worked in similar entertainment projects before. He told the Herald this week: "I want to see this town get an arena and I intend to work just as hard as I can to help build one as soon as possible."

He supervises the Sunday afternoon auditions every weekend in the Community Centre, in addition to planning the program and directing rehearsals during the three week period prior to each Jamboree.

"We need more talent. We find we're short of instrumentalists and I'd surely like to see more of them turn out on Sundays for a trial run."

"If there is anyone who can sing, play or shake a leg I hope they'll come forward and offer a hand. We stress this is not the Ed Sullivan Show. It's just a friendly old time, hometown, talent concert and we expect the odd bopper from time to time. Nobody is expected to put on an absolutely professional performance. If they were THAT good they'd be on the REAL Ed Sullivan Show."

"Cousin Herkimer" Kinsman beamed from ear to ear as he turned a cheque in the amount of $356.00 over to Art Bates, president of the Terrace Arena Association this week.

Around the town

A kitchen shower was held recently at the home of Mrs. Douglas Little, 4319 Birch, in honor of Miss Marilyn Johnstone, R.N., only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd M. Johnstone, whose marriage to RCMP Constable Douglas J. McLeod takes place in Knox United Church on Saturday, December 16.

Mrs. William Bennett and Mrs. William Anderson have returned from a six-week vacation, during which time they travelled by train, bus and aircraft. They crossed Canada and spent some time at EXPO. Among other places visited were New York; Washington, D.C.; North Carolina; Atlanta, Georgia; Texas, Mexico, Los Angeles, Las Vegas and Reno.

Mrs. A.J. McColl left on Monday's flight for Vancouver where she will enter the Centennial wing of Vancouver General Hospital for surgical treatment.

A joint miscellaneous shower was held in the Nurses' residence of Mills Memorial Hospital for Miss Marilyn Johnstone R.N. and Miss Dixie Montjory R.N. prior to their wedding days.

Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Inselberg were hosts to a group of friends at a dinner party at Holiday Hot Springs to celebrate their daughter Mika's 21st birthday. Music and candles and decorated birthday cake featured the evening celebration. Mika has returned to studies at Columbia College in Vancouver.

Mrs. Millie Bate and Mrs. Ralph Harten were co-hostesses on Thursday, November 23, at 4723 Park Avenue, when a surprise baby shower was held in honor of Mrs. Dennis McLeod and her son David. Many gifts were received. Present were: Mesdames Mrs. J.L. McLeod, H.A. Jackson, J.M. Scott, Karl Wold, Sylvia Hughes, Norma Kukola, Carol Juieth and Winnie Coburn. Sending gifts but unable to attend were: Mrs. P.J. Sims, Mrs. Glen Pratt, Mrs. Ada Gardner, Mrs. Jennifer Graf and Miss Karlene Kukola, the baby's aunt who is at present in London, England.

Delegates to the library workshop held last week-end were representatives from Prince Rupert, Kitimat, Vancouver and Victoria. They were guests at a social reception at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Clarke on Saturday evening hosted by the Terrace Library Board and at a luncheon at Gilm's restaurant on Sunday sponsored by the Public Library Commission.

Mrs. Christine Wadell, director for the Women's Bureau of the Department of Labour was a brief visitor in Terrace last week going on to Kitimat to address a meeting of Business and Professional women in the Alumnium City. Members of the Terrace branch of BPW were in attendance.

Flowers calm thirsty loggers

TOFINO, B.C. (CP) — Betty Farmer's recipe for holding your beer is a stroll through the rhododendrons. And it works! Mrs. Farmer, and her sister Josephine Brydges say that in 26 years of serving beer in a hotel to Vancouver Island fishermen, loggers and miners, they have yet to encounter rough words or fistfights.

When Mrs. Farmer, a widow, bought the hotel on a tiny nearby island in 1941, most of the beer-parlor customers took pride in their abilities to drink great quantities.

"It was a matter of getting to know every customer and just how much he could hold," says Mrs. Farmer.

"Sam Joe was allowed only two beers and an ale and was then out off, while Andy Jack was allowed four beers."

Many of the loggers and fishermen can recall how they gobbled up with a walk through the hotel's garden of rhododendrons, imported by the sisters from Tibet to brighten up their tiny island.

"After taking a breather they could always come back for another beer provided the fresh air had an effect on them," says Mrs. Farmer.

GRACE FELL

Welcome Wagon hostess here

One in 6000 is the welcoming smile of Mrs. Grace Fell, Terrace hostess for Welcome Wagon Limited.

Mrs. Fell recently returned from a training course for Welcome Wagon hostesses, held in Vancouver.

She is now officially one of 6000 Welcome Wagon hostesses making over a million calls annually on families in all the provinces of Canada, the United States, United Kingdom, Puerto Rico, Trinidad and Australia.

Welcome Wagon hostesses make calls on such important family occasions as the birth of a new baby, engagement announcements and whenever families arrive in a community as new residents.

Special occasions such as Golden and Silver wedding anniversaries also come in for a Welcome Wagon welcome.

On behalf of her Terrace sponsors, Mrs. Fell takes religious and civic information to families on which she calls. With her basket of gifts donated by sponsoring merchants, Mrs. Fell extends to the people of this community some hospitality.

Mrs. Fell has lived in Terrace for over ten years.

To contact Grace Fell, your official Welcome Wagon hostess, call 635-6939.

Nun jets home after 45 years

SEPT-ILES, Que. (CP) — Yvonne Begin left Canada 45 years ago for France and entered the closed world of a cloister in a Paris suburb.

Just recently Yvonne Begin, now Sister Marie of the Immaculate Heart stepped from a jet in Montreal into the arms of relatives she scarcely expected to see again.

She was overwhelmed when her Mother Superior, acting on relaxed regulations of the Vatican, arranged for her trip to Canada. She was the first nun in the cloister to benefit from the new freedom.

Sister Marie, now 68, is petite, vivacious and highly intelligent. For 45 years she has devoted her life at the Good Shepherd Convent at Cheville Larue near Paris to delinquent girls.

BASKETBALL

Agars outlast Marshall Wells in over-overtime

BY JOHN OMAN

It took two overtime periods for cellar-dwelling Agars Red and White to down Marshall Wells Tuesday (November 21).

The final score in the basketball thriller was 52-46.

Agars could have bowed out gracefully in regulation time when with seconds left Gord McConnell set up Jerry Sharples for the tying basket.

Agars looked like winning it in the first overtime period but again with seconds left Marshall Wells' Mel Margourt found the basket for more overtime.

Herb Marvin of Marshall Wells fouled out and Agars Red and White poured in a six point margin to take the game.

Scoring for Agars Red and White: Jack Stroet, 16, Jerry Sharples, 14, Gord McConnell, 10, Don McLeod, 8, Kevin O'Farrell, 4.

Marshall Wells: John Miller, 16, Martin Adams, 14, Herb Marvin, 9, Mel Margourt, Alfred Johnson, 2, Simon Muldoe, 2.

Games are open to the public and there's no charge to see the local basketball teams in action.

In Sunday action Skeena High continued its hot pursuit of leading Albert & McCaffery by trouncing Agars Red and White 60-44.

Skeena defencemen Bruce Peters and Rod Kluss showed strong basketball sense in stopping the bigger Agars team by snatching rebounds off the boards.

Skeena: Bob Kester, 18, Rod Kluss, 16, Bruce Peters, 14, Rick Dakin, 11, Paul Walker, 1.

Agars: Jerry Sharples, 16, Fred Philpott, 11, Jack Stroet, 8, Al Blessin, 4, Don Haudenschild, 2, Kevin O'Farrell, 2, Gord McConnell, 1.

Sunday's second event saw Marshall Wells squeeze by a weakened Al & Mac squad 42-39 in a close contest.

Injured and absent ballplayers made the difference in the final minutes.

Marshall Wells: Martin Adams, 13, John Miller, 12, Mel Margourt, 10, Herb Marvin, 6, Simon Muldoe, 1.

Al & Mac: Harold Champoux, 12, Jim Gould, 10, Colin Chasteneuf, 5, Doug McKay, 4, Steve Reynolds, 4, Jim Olsen, 4.

Current scoring leaders are Martin Adams, Rod Kluss, Herb Marvin, John Oman and John Miller.

League standings: Al and Mac, won five, lost three; Skeena, won five; lost 4, Marshall Wells, won four, lost five; Agars Red and White, won three, lost five.

New man in reeve's chair when students take over

There was a new man sitting in the reeve's chair Wednesday.

And some 20 new councillors. It wasn't a palace revolution triggered by high taxes, lack of blacktop or wiggly things in the water.

It was an experiment launched by Skeena Secondary to give senior students a more realistic grasp of civic affairs.

Skeena's Student Council took over the Municipal Council Chamber to transact school business. Student Council president Wayne Kirby took over Reeve Bert Goulet's chair.

Jo-Anne Miller, vice-president, sat beside him.

Secretary Sherry Thomas and treasurer Elizabeth Horsfield also moved up to the head of the table to help handle business.

They met with some 20 students. Not all were council representatives. A couple of students represented the Press.

Business was handled competently and briskly under Wayne Kirby's chairmanship.

In fact actual business done far exceeded the rate achieved by the normal incumbents of the Council chamber. But then, planning sports activity, use of the gym and entertainment is a lot less complex than trying to put blacktop on mud roads without raising the taxes.

US College squad will play Natives

Native village basketball Christmas season with the scheduled visit of a travelling team from Upland, Indiana.

The Indiana squad, all students of Taylor University, are due to arrive in the north coast area, on Boxing Day, to play the Metlakatla, Alaska, senior men.

On December 28 the Taylor team will meet a team from Kitkatla and on the 29th and 30th they will play at Port Simpson.

Hazelton is scheduled to play against the visitors on January 1st and Greenville is lined up for January 2.

On January 3 and 4, the Taylor team expects to be in Canyon City and on January 5th the basketball travelling journey will end in Kitamaat Village.

Charlie Rhoades of Port Edward was in Terrace last week making arrangements for the visitors.

This was the second year that a team from Taylor University has visited the north coast region during the Yuletide.

Team members will be billeted during their tour of the Upper Skeena villages and expect to spend one day, January 6, at the Holiday Hot Springs resort.

The team will leave Seattle by plane on Christmas Day and after playing the Metlakatla squad will board a ferry for the trip to Prince Rupert from whence they will continue by bus.

They will pass through Terrace twice but have not been scheduled to meet any local basketballers.

JUNIOR FOREST WARDENS ASK:

Ski-doo racing, anyone?

You could see ski-doo racing on local snowy slopes this winter.

Ski-doo and snowmobile racing is one idea suggested by Terrace's Junior Forest Wardens.

Junior warden Eric Peters is now attempting to gauge local interest in the new sport.

The ski-doo to the uninitiated is a motorized sleigh.

Like cars, power plants in the ski-doo and snowmobiles can vary.

But Eric Peters feels that this wouldn't pose any major problem in organizing races.

He feels slalom events would keep the machines on a competitive level.

Currently the Junior Forest Wardens are looking for competitors, a site, and some snow.

The snow is on the way, the site won't pose any major problem, and would-be competitors can write to Peters at Box 576, Terrace.

TERRACE TEACHERS Association has awarded $250 scholarships to Linda Bennie (above) and Carol Johnson (below). Linda receives the first bursary, given to a student entering education. She was a member of Future Teachers' Club at Skeena Secondary, is now enrolled at UBC Faculty of Education.

CAROL JOHNSON receives a Terrace Teachers Association $250 general bursary, is currently enrolled in Arts 1 program at UBC, hopes to specialize in English. Association includes Terrace and Hazelton teachers.

8-Card of Thanks

A hearty "Thank You" to the men
Who helped us out this year again
Serving food and taking part in our efforts, from the start.
We tell them of their many charms -
While gently twisting on their arms -
And ask for favours large and small
Regarding Shops, Bazaar and Ball
And so herewith we'd like to state
That all the girls appreciate
The Men.

No return for Jacques

MONTREAL (CP) — When Jacques Plante invented the goal-keeper's mask, he said the innovation would keep him in hockey until he was 40.

But although he won't be 39 until January and despite the fact he was the best goalie in the [California] Seals training camp this summer, he has no thoughts of coming out of retirement.

Plante was invited to the camp of the new National Hockey League entry to help the new players. He donned the pads for the club's workouts.

He looked so good that there was immediate speculation that Jake the Snake would be talked into returning to the game, especially since Charlie Hodge, who played in Plante's shadow at Montreal for years, was a holdout.

But before the season started, Plante was back home doing his weekly sports column.

ROOF IS NOW ON Senior Citizens Housing Complex and the buildings could be open by next April. Applications are now being received for single and double units in the home. Story below.

Applications requested for old folks' housing

Senior citizens wishing to make a home at the housing project on Tuck Avenue can apply right now.

Terrace and District Welfare Council for Social Resources announced this week that they are ready to take applications from prospective tenants.

The housing complex of 14 single occupancy units and four double occupancy units, built exclusively for senior citizens, is expected to open next April.

The committee will charge $63 per month for the double units and $49 per month for the single units. Rental fee covers all utilities.

Rev. H. Madsen, chairman of the applications committee told the Herald:

"This housing is open to all senior citizens who are 65 years of age or older, regardless of race, creed or affiliation with any organizations. Need for more suitable accommodation is the main requirement for any applicant."

He said that to give a fair opportunity to all the people who wanted to apply for accommodation in the new buildings, no applications would be acted upon until January 15, 1968.

"However, each application that is received will be acknowledged by mail, and the accepted applicants will be notified by February 15, 1968," Mr. Madsen said.

Application forms and further information may be had by contacting the Chairman of the Welfare Council, Rev. G. Keenleyside, at Box 884, or the Chairman of the Applications Committee, Rev. H. Madsen, Box 1256.

Anyone having knowledge of any elderly citizen who is in need of more suitable housing is asked to pass this information on.

A taste of peanut butter

By RUTH HALLOCK

A Catholic priest, Reverend Terence J. Mangan, moonlights as a policeman in Seaside, California. He has worked as an auxiliary policeman on the night shift for two years and is known as Father Fuzz.

Molly Mattress is busy casting her annual post-Christmas pantomime. Readings started last Monday and rehearsals began on Sunday morning. This year it will be "The Emperor's New Clothes" and the Emperor will be none other than Dave Cash, your friendly "TK" wake-up man. Provided of course that he doesn't run out of gas on the way to rehearsals!

I too, have been cast as a somewhat sinister Chinese housekeeper named "Finky-Poo". The reaction here from our advertising types indicated there might have been a conspiracy somewhere, because the character's name was half-right. Oh well the pantomime has a character named "Hanky-Panky" too and Norbert Cote is going to tackle that role. P.S. You can see the show in February!

Thank you to Frank Howard, MP for Skeena, whose letter of acknowledgement and encouragement came as a surprise because politicians don't usually have kind words for newspapers. In fact, we had to dig the original article out of the morgue to refresh our own memories. We'd forgotten that in February, 1965 the Federal Government had announced it wouldn't give the Terrace airport terminal building any consideration before 1969. And although our editorial may have had its share of impact, we must also remember the many other people who have plugged for this building for so long.

Another thank-you to Art Bates and Bill Bacon who took over my "Arenarama" radio program last Wednesday morning with only a few minutes advance notice. The Hallock household has been plagued for over two weeks with colds and colds and laryngitis.

And here is a mystery for someone to solve. In 1965 a tape recorder was borrowed for use at the annual Hospital Auxiliary Ball. It was never returned to its owner, and Mrs. Etta Phillips of the Auxiliary has been unable to find it anywhere. The original borrower of the machine has since left Terrace, but in a telephone call she said the recorder was left here in someone else's care and she cannot remember who the "someone else" was. Will "someone else" please call Mrs. Phillips at 635-2548. Otherwise the Auxiliary may have to foot the bill for one missing tape recorder.

Bill Kreller of Oliver, B.C., caught himself a 32 pound steelhead in the Kisplox River on November 18. It was reported to be the largest steelhead taken from the Kisplox this year. In any case the fish broke Game Warden Les Cox's 28 pound scale. Bill Kreller is an ardent fisherman who, together with Mrs. Kreller, was in Terrace visiting with his daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Hans Magdanz and family. The Krellers took some steelhead from the Copper River on November 17 so the fish are obviously jumpin'.

One of the nicest civil servants I've had the pleasure to meet in this business, is Mrs. Christine Waddell, Director of the Women's Bureau of the Provincial Department of Labour. Mrs. Waddell was in the Terrace-Kitimat area last week as the guest of the Kitimat Business & Professional Women's Club. She spent Monday evening in Terrace where she made a television appearance and then joined press and radio representatives for dinner. Accompanying her on a brief tour of Terrace was Mrs. Lorraine McLarty, president of the Kitimat BPW Club.

Just for the record I am no longer the Fund Raising Administrator for the Terrace Arena Association, having resigned from that position because I lacked the hours in which to properly do the job, and because the Arena Association membership is now entirely devoted to the task of fund raising. I will remain as a member of the association and will chair the publicity committee.

Well that's about enough peanut butter for one week. In fact it's about enough for several weeks, depending on how thin you spread it!

This was Terrace in 1957

The following entries were taken from the 1957 files of the Terrace Omnibus Herald of 1957, TEN YEARS AGO.

M. "Bud" Mooney of Bibby's Propane attended a meeting of the Kitimat Municipal Council, was encouraged to hear that the council was told that the Terrace - Kitimat highway should be open for traffic before the end of the year.

A recent nomination convention of the Skeena CCF Federal Association named as candidate for the Federal election a young man who is not new to the field of politics. He is Frank Howard, former MLA for Skeena, and union organizer for I.W.A.

Building permits issued within the Village for the year ending 1956 totalled $407,215 according to the report of Village Building Inspector R. Squires.

The Water Rights branch of the B.C. Lands and Forests Department has fully approved and passed a Hospital Improvement District for this area.

FEBRUARY, 1957
As Terrace phones passed the 1,000 mark, B.C. Telephone Co. announces plans to install a common battery switchboard later this year. An automatic telephone system is slated for the Terrace Exchange in mid-1959.

APRIL, 1957
Keith Tucker, Prince Rupert Optometrist, who is serving the people here in that capacity for the past four years, has decided to move to Terrace and take up permanent residence.

Skeena Construction Ltd. has been awarded the contract for the building of a new $100,000 grocery department to Terrace Co-operative Store.

A new Hammond Electric organ has been installed in Knox United Church.

Mr. and Mrs. C.J. (Jim) Norrington played host to a few friends on April 2, to mark the occasion of their 40th anniversary.

Kisplox River steelhead continue to hold the limelight in fly casting and open division of the western rainbow contest in the annual Field & Stream magazine's awards by grabbing the biggest share of honors. Kisplox fish took seven of the 20 places.

The local School Board of office announces that the school mill rate is not 18.93.

The Canadian Mining Air tour to be held Sept. 11 to 19, by the sixth Commonwealth Mining & Metallurgical Congress, has Terrace included on the itinerary.

Dr. C.C. Mills started his practice in Terrace on April 30, 1930 and coincidentally closed it on April 30, 1957.

Run the bum out of town --or find a psychiatrist?

By RUTH HALLOCK

How many of you know the man who should be run out of town?

He's the father of seven kids.

His wife is pregnant for the eighth time and she hasn't had a new winter coat for three years.

His kids wander the streets with a hungry look in their eyes.

And he spends the Family Allowance cheque and what Welfare allowance he manages to get, in the local pub.

He's shiftless, good-for-nothing, stupid, a loudmouth, lazy, and a know-it-all. What's more he fights when he's drunk. And what's even worse — he beats up on his wife.

He shouldn't be given any assistance unless he's willing to work, you say.

Or perhaps he should be locked up, or sterilized or — as we suggested in the first instance — run out of town.

Would you believe that on top of all the other terrible labels this man carries there is one that supercedes the rest.

He's sick!

And unless the mental health facilities offered here in the north country are seriously upgraded and expanded the man may never get better.

There are reasons for a man's continual drinking.

There are reasons for his inability to keep a job.

There are reasons for his wife-beating habits.

He doesn't know what they might be and we don't know what they might be. But that doesn't make them any less real.

The man needs counsel at the professional level. Not legal counsel, not spiritual counsel — but psychiatric counsel.

And he can't get it in Terrace. The nearest Mental Health Clinic is located in Prince George. A man suffering this kind of mental mix-up is not likely to hire himself to Prince George for professional assistance.

Margaret Greening, District Supervisor for the Provincial Department of Social Welfare, has this to say about mental health facilities in northern B.C.:

"We have a very, very sad lack of psychiatric facilities in the north. The nearest Regional mental health clinic is in Prince George. There should be one here."

We asked Mrs. Greening if her Social Workers make any attempt to find the source of trouble in homes where breakdown has become apparent. She commented:

"We do everything we can to try and pin down the problem. We deal with the difficulties in their manner of precedence. For example if we walk into a home and find it is without food and the family is hungry — then our first step is to get some food and see that everyone is fed."

"If the home is cold and without fuel then we must immediately set that to rights. After all these essentials are taken care of we then attempt to feel out the major cause for the difficulties." She continued: "As I have pointed out, it is quite often alcohol, and from this point we are brought to the stage where we hold discussions with the father of the family and try to get him to tell us his reasons for turning to alcohol. This is not easy. Such men are not always anxious to unload their souls to Social Workers. And we are not psychiatrists. We might think we have the matter all straightened out but it is usually a recurring problem."

Time too is a factor in the therapeutic treatment of falling families.

"There is a limit to the amount of territory we can cover with this intensive follow-up treatment," Mrs. Greening pointed out.

"Right now, throughout the entire country there is a serious shortage of psychiatrists. They do not want to come to the northern areas unless we have the facilities in which they can properly conduct their profession."

MR. AND MRS. PATRICK ROBERT DOLPHIN

Knox United site of Dolphin-Keeping rites

Prince Rupert will be the home of a Terrace couple, married here September 30 in Knox United Church.

Patrick Robert Dolph of Terrace and his bride, the former Laurel Francis Keeping, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Percy Keeping of Terrace, were wed in a 7:30 p.m. ceremony, Rev. G. W. Keenleyside officiated.

Best man was Ron Dolph, brother of the groom. The bride's brother, Jerrold Keeping, was groomsman.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride selected a street length wedding dress of white peau de sole with Chantilly lace Redingote. Her waist length veil was held in place by a seed pearl tiara and she carried a cascade bouquet of red roses.

The bride's sister, Mrs. Elaine Owen of Kitimat, was matron of honor in an afternoon gown of gold lace. Her bouquet was of roses.

Bridesmaid, Miss Velma Sandford of Terrace was identically gowned in blue lace and carried a gold bouquet.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, where relatives and friends met to wish the young couple well and enjoy a buffet luncheon.

For her going away ensemble, the bride donned a two piece suit of deep burgundy corduroy with white accessories and corsage.

Following a brief honeymoon trip, the couple took up residence in Prince Rupert where the groom is employed.

Hazelton people seek television

HAZELTON — Hazelton people want to see television.

That's the message, three service clubs gave Skeena MP Frank Howard November 19.

Skeena Lions, South Hazelton Women's Institute and Kinsmen asked Howard what could be done.

Lions Ralph Dupols chaired the meeting.

Frances Anderson of the W.I. later described Howard's comments as "very helpful."

"He was able to clear up many points and expressed his willingness to help in any way possible," she said.

Contacted by the Herald Skeena Broadcasters Managing Director J. Fred Weber said that Hazelton needed a repeater station to get good viewing from CFTK.

"The problem is a question of cost," he said.

Weber said that he would meet with Hazelton people Friday, December 8 to discuss the situation.

Before this room was remodeled, a big, uninteresting window provided little more than a dim view of brick walls.

Lumber needed to make a lambrequin is shown at upper left. Next to it is the assembled lambrequin. Paper or fabric is being applied with a stapler (lower left). Trim is put on with glue if it is of light material. Stapling is necessary with heavy fabric.

A big, bare window has been improved by the addition of a floor-to-molding lambrequin covered with solid color fabric and trimmed with coordinated tassel fringe. White curtains are trimmed with self-adhesive nylon velvet ribbon. Other remodeling changes make it look like a new room.

PUT A FRAME ON THAT VIEW WITH SOME WINDOW MAGIC

Windows are wonderful. But some older homes have an assortment of unrelated windows, some tall and narrow, some small and placed high on the wall. Standard window treatments on such windows make a decorative mish-mash.

Even in new homes, windows can be a problem. A big picture window may have an unattractive view or let in too much glare, or a series of corner casements may be hard to handle decoratively.

One way to solve window problems—camouflage a difficult window, tie two small windows together or make two windows of different sizes look alike—is to use a lambrequin.

This is a wide frame that covers the top and both sides of the window, the curtains and draperies hanging within it. Like a cornice with sides that extend to the floor, a lambrequin can be painted or covered with fabric or adhesive-backed paper, and its inner edges can be straight or cut in a pattern to suit the style of the room's furnishings.

EDGES NEED TRIM
For a finished look, it's best to use trim—brass, tassels, fringe or gimp—around the edges, especially since it is almost impossible for an amateur to apply the covering perfectly. In a patterned room, a simple lambrequin in a matching color will do, but for a room with period decor, tassels, fringe or braid is more appropriate at the inner edges, with a plain gimp around the angle where the front meets top and sides.

A design made of trim can substitute for a shaped edge if jigsaw work seems too complicated. Or you can try a scroll, sawtooth, or scallop design.

Lambrequins are easy to make with simple tools—hammer and saw, plus a jigsaw if the inner edges are to be shaped, and a staple gun if available.

Materials needed include a 4' x 8' piece of hardboard or 1/2" plywood for the front, stock 1/2" x 4" furring for top and sides, plus paint, paper or fabric and trim, tacks or staples, glue and finishing nails for attaching trim, and two angle irons. If the lambrequin must be deeper, to cover a radiator for instance, use wider furring for top and sides. A thin padding of foam rubber under the fabric will give lambrequins a soft, finished look.

HOW TO DO IT

Decide on the height and width of the lambrequin. Remember, it can be made high to increase the apparent height of a low window, or wide to make two windows look like one. The draperies and curtains will cover the entire area within the frame, hiding architectural irregularities.

Cut two equal pieces of furring for the sides. These should be the exact height of the completed lambrequin. Cut another piece for the top, subtracting the total thickness of the two side pieces from the desired width of the lambrequin to arrive at the right length. Glue and nail the side pieces to the ends of the top piece.

To make top of front, cut a piece of plywood or hardboard about 12 inches deep and wide enough to just cover the sides of frame. Nail and glue to edges of frame at top. Cut sides of front 6-8 inches wide and long enough to reach from top piece to floor. Glue and nail into place, then glue or staple a small piece of 1/4" plywood over back of joints where sides meet top of front piece. Be sure these cleats are set in at least 1" from edges so they won't show.

If front is to have a shaped edge, decide on the design, then draw on a piece of sturdy paper such as brown wrapping paper, which can be bought by the roll. Lay lambrequin on floor, front up, and cover half of it with the paper. Draw and cut out the pattern for just one side, then trace the design on that side of lambrequin. Reverse pattern and trace it on the other side. Use a jigsaw to cut out the design.

If foam rubber padding is to be used, cut it out to fit over edges and glue to lambrequin. Use masking tape to attach edges inside and at back of frame.

If fabric or self-adhesive paper is to be used, cut it to cover front, top and sides, leaving an additional 2" allowance around both inside and outside edges. At corners and curves, snip fabric to edge of lambrequin to permit shaping and fitting. Tack or staple edges to back of frame.

Apply trim to form a design, or cover inside and outside edges of front with trim. If trim is fairly thick, staples won't show, but if it is delicate, apply glue to lambrequin edges and press trim on, using finishing nails here and there to hold it in place while glue dries.

Attach rods inside lambrequin and secure it to the wall with two angle irons screwed to top of box and to the wall.

Curtains and draperies can be hung either before or after the box is attached to the wall. In some cases, lambrequins are used alone or with just window shades. Shades can be decorated with the same fringe or braid that's used on the lambrequin.

Varnish tips

Is there a varnishing project on the agenda? For the smooth, bubble-free finish that sometimes seems so difficult to achieve, try this simple procedure:

Use a soft bristle brush of good quality.

Grip the brush by the ferrule, allowing the handle to rest between thumb and forefinger.

Dip the brush in the varnish, to no more than one-third of the length of the bristles.

Don't wipe of excess varnish on the rim of the can. Do tap the brush gently against inside of can. This removes excess, prevents dripping, yet leaves brush "loaded" with enough varnish for smooth application.

SETTLING FASTER

Cosmic dust is settling on the earth three times faster than 700 years ago.

HELPFUL HINTS

After wood has been bleached, the residue of the chemical must be washed off. Different bleaches require different methods of washing. Read the directions on the container.

Terrazzo floors, which have been known to take on a yellowish tinge when repeatedly finished with surface materials, are best protected with a sealer-type finish made especially for terrazzo.

Never suspend a paint brush in water, even if you're going to use it again in a few hours.

In using a putty knife after paint remover has been applied, hold it in a nearly horizontal position while scraping to avoid damaging the wood.

Here's a general rule for determining the length of a nail that is designated in penny size. Divide the penny size by four and add 1/2 inch. Thus, a four-penny nail would be 1 1/2 inches long.

Oil paint and varnish should be removed from paint brushes with turpentine or quality mineral spirits.

New One-Day Floor System

If you have been tripping over broken floor tiles or torn linoleum for months, and ignoring it because you cannot bear the thought of tearing it up and living with the mess for several days, cheer up, there is a solution.

Because few manufacturers of resilient tile or linoleum will guarantee a new floor installed over an old one, do-it-yourself experts and inspectors have had to resign themselves to two or three days of hard labor which included the tearing of an entire floor before it could be recovered. A new one-day installation system developed recently will change all that.

The new installation method, called the permiflor system, makes it possible to install several types of sheet vinyl flooring directly over most old floors, permitting full use of the room the same day.

A new bonding technique has been developed which will enable the average home repairman to install the subfloor simply and easily by cementing only the outer edges of six-foot-wide sheets of vinyl flooring to the subfloor. Preparation of the subfloor is required only in a narrow band around the perimeter of the room and along seam lines.

NEW HOUSE DESIGN - Featuring a living-dining room and kitchen which overlook the garden, this three bedroom brick veneer split-level house designed by architect Douglas H. Miller of Vancouver, is best suited for a lot which slopes gently down to the street.

Three steps separate the bedroom wing from the living-dining and kitchen wing. The kitchen has a "U" shaped counter layout and room for a dining table. It is close to the front door and has one window overlooking the carport, and another, above the sink, overlooking the garden. An open hatch connects the kitchen with the living-dining area. From the dining room double doors lead into the garden and are part of the glass wall running the full length of the living-dining room. A three foot high partition separates this room from the stairs leading to the basement, which extends only beneath the bedroom and entrance hall areas of the house. It contains a large recreation room in addition to storage and utility rooms. All ceilings follow the slope of the roof. The living-dining room windows should face south-west.

The floor area is 1,111 square feet excluding the carport and the exterior dimensions are 35 feet one inch by 40 feet. Working drawings for this house, known as Design 764, can be obtained from Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation at a moderate cost. The same house, known as Design 760, is available with a frame exterior.

Fashion hints for fat girls

By — George W. Crane
Lois D., aged 27, conducts a Charm School.
"Dr. Crane," she began, "I wish you would wake up a lot of modern women to the simple psychology of styles and fashions."
"Many girls will thus adopt the very fads that make them look their worst!"
"Can't you warn women against being such silly sheep?"

Once each semester at Northwestern University I would schedule a public lecture on "Charm." My students could then invite their friends and relatives. So we'd require the auditorium at our Law School to hold the crowd.
Although I don't claim to be an artist, I'd even illustrate on the blackboard many of the psychological points about women's fashions.
For example, I'd show why ultra short skirts (miniskirts) are absolutely taboo for fat girls and those with bowlegs or knock-knees!
If a girl has bowlegs, which look like a pair of parentheses ( ), then a longer skirt will hide the upper half of the arcs. This will then make the lower halves seem less bent!

And if she will wear hose with seams, then she should carefully avoid letting the seams follow the curved legs.

Instead, move those seams slightly to the inside and keep them straight, for then the straight seams will help neutralize the outward curves of her bowlegs.

Don't blindly follow the bizarre women's styles or madly stampede into adopting fads that make you look ludicrous or topeheavy! You can always vary the length of your skirt by a couple of inches without being obvious.

So always adapt the fad to your own cosmetic advantage!

Lengthen the skirts slightly to hide your knock-knees or knotty knees and bowlegs.

If you are too fat, then a diet is obviously the best remedy. But meanwhile, you can reduce your apparent obesity by as much as 10 per cent merely by the way you dress.

For instance, fat women should avoid anything that makes the eyes of their companions travel East and West, or crosswise. Thus, omit belted frocks and jacket suits where the lower line of the jacket adds another crosswise line.

Instead, pick fabrics with fine vertical pin stripes to make the eyes go up and down (North and South) and thus create the psychological illusion of more height.

Checkered patterns, plus large flowered designs, also make you seem fatter! Light colors "fatten" your appearance! Dark hues "slenderize".

Fatties, don't use square-cut necks in your dresses. And avoid a tight strand of beads that crosses your throat.

Instead, use a deep V-neck and add a long strand of beads to add more of those vertical lines that slenderize your figure.

Also, avoid rings on your stubby, fat fingers, for they also exaggerate your plumpness. Avoid thick or fur coats and mink stoles, for they make an average wife look elephantine! Slender girls can use the above rules in reverse in order to make themselves appear less skinny or "bony."

Five stars for Seagram's Special Old.

A whisky this good deserves top rating. So we've added a big gold star and five small ones on the label. Easy to spot on the new square bottle.

But inside the bottle is the same easy-tasting whisky that's been a favourite for years here in B.C.

If you want to find out why, that's easy too.

Canadian drama started with 'Theatre of Neptune'

The first play in Canada was a pageant presented in 1606 on the waters of Annapolis Basin at Port Royal in the Bay of Fundy, entitled "Theatre of Neptune". It was written by Marc Les-carbot, a brilliant young Parisian lawyer who proved to be the life of the party at the frame habitation in the new colony of Port Royal.

Built by the Sieur de Monts in 1605 from plans drawn by Samuel de Champlain, this was the first permanent white settlement on the continent north of the Gulf of Mexico.

The original building was destroyed by an English Colonial force from Virginia in 1613, marking the beginning of the long struggle between England and France for supremacy in the new world.

It has since been reconstructed on the original site. Champlain was a member of the pioneering party, and so was Louis Hebert, both moving later to Quebec.

Les-carbot founded an "Order of Good Cheer" which provided for nightly feasts during the winter. In November of 1606, the play was performed to welcome back Poutrincourt, the governor, from a voyage of exploration. Les-carbot later wrote and illustrated an entertaining history of the colony.

After a poor start, the colonists were able to survive the winters without scurvy thanks to the fresh fruit and vegetables planted by Hebert.

Canadian centennial on CBC-TV

Once Upon a Hundred Years there was a country called Canada whose citizens shed their traditional inhibitions in a year-long burst of celebrations saluting the Centennial of Confederation.

And this country had a national broadcasting system called the CBC which made a film record of these celebrations, large and small, from coast to coast.

And Once Upon a Hundred Years is the title of the special, 90-minute colorcast made from these films which the national TV network scheduled for showing at 8 p.m. on New Year's Day of 1968, as Confederation entered its second century.

Once Upon a Hundred Years focuses on Centennial activity from St. John's to Victoria, from Winnipeg to Yellowknife. Scope of events covered ranges from the multi-million dollar World's Fair, Expo 67 at Montreal and the Pan American Games at Winnipeg to a balloon race at Calgary and a board-growing contest in Toronto.

The cross-country Confederation Train and Caravans, the Voyageur Canoe Race and the Nanaimo-to-Vancouver bathtub race are also featured on the 90-minute colorcast.

Script for Once Upon a Hundred Years is by Lister Sinclair, with Max Ferguson lending his special brand of humor to the narration.

Kwia comes to TK vidio

The Bridge on the River Kwai, winner of seven Academy Awards and 27 International awards has been scheduled for re-showing on CFTK-TV on Dec. 1st.

The telecast, which replaces regular weekly programming for this occasion, won the largest audiences ever to view an entertainment program when it was first shown in 1968.

The Bridge on the River Kwai, stars William Holden, Alec Guinness, Jack Hawkins and co-stars Sessue Hayakawa.

Report from Parliament Hill

Tory patriotism a bid for power?

By FRANK HOWARD
"It would be an act of patriotism to force an election and oust the Liberal government," says Robert Stanfield, Leader of the Progressive Conservative Party.

This was his comment just prior to taking his seat in Parliament on Wednesday, November 15th.

Well, it undoubtedly would be a good thing if the Liberals were out of office—but what Mr. Stanfield is really saying is that it would be an act of patriotism if he could only get to be Prime Minister.

In politics one needs self-confidence and a large ego. In this case though I think Mr. Stanfield has gone a bit far.

We recall quite distinctly the period in Parliament just prior to the 1963 election when Mr. Diefenbaker was Prime Minister and Mr. Pearson Leader of the Opposition.

At that time the Liberals pulled every mean trick in the book to force an election. They hammered Mr. Diefenbaker and his government unmercifully. As an aside, I think Mr. Diefenbaker, at that time, probably deserved all that he got for he brought about most of his troubles himself.

The war cry of the Liberals, after the election of 1963 was forced, also revolved around patriotism.

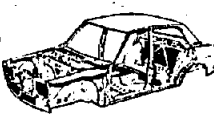

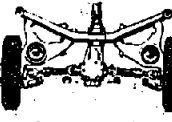

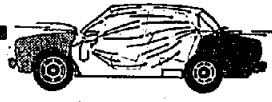

After having been the government for 22 years, then out of government for 6 years (six years of ineptitude) they were convinced that no one could run government like themselves—and in one terrible sense they were correct.

However, the main objective of the Liberals in 1963 was to get into office—simply that—obtain power. Of course one must obtain power to do the things which need to be done.

But when the desire for power overshadows the particular problems which need to be dealt with we are in trouble, and we have been ever since the debacle of Finance Minister Gordon's first budget and the indecisive "Sixty Days of Decision".

Mr. Robert Stanfield seeing the obvious confusion in the Liberal ranks, smelling power for himself and his Party, is now bent on forcing an election. It seems to me that here again the lust for power overshadows a concern for the problems of the day.

Mr. Robert Stanfield would have served himself, his Party, and Canada better if he would have said that it would be an act of patriotism to work in Parliament for the Canadian people—after all he wasn't even officially seated in the House at the time he made his "Act of Patriotism" statement.
